

LOCAL NEWS.

We Advertisers.

Notice: We keep copies of the papers here are circulated among the leading population every day, besides those numbers served to regular subscribers. Advertisers will take note accordingly.

NOTICE OF MARRIAGE, BIRTHS, AND DEATHS.

Ocuring in Washington and Georgetown, will be printed in this paper without charge.

Washington Traveller.—This evening Miss Anne's life will make her first appearance, in King's Hall, in the great tragic play of "Medea." We have not seen Miss Anne for years, but she is said to be beautiful person, and one of the best noticed upon the stage at the present time. She has a very fine figure, and is well informed which led to her subsequent arrest, by Officers Vernon and Gosford. In examining several witnesses testified to seeing Mangum stab Russell. It was also proved that Mangum was dimmed, he was the real culprit, according to the following statement of Mangum: "I Mangum inflicted the stab he ran down the alley and there's the knife into the house of his master in the same blood, who took the knife, I don't know, but I think it was Mangum." Mangum, alias "Butch," is the most charming actress in the country. Her line of character, as our readers well know, is the higher class of "farcos." Mangum always plays the "School for Scandal." She also plays the high tragedie as the "Madonna of Am." and the part of "Juliet," in "Romeo and Juliet." Her "Juliet" is the "Hammerhead" in very fine; but we have been accustomed to admire her judgment of "Lady Gay Speaker," in "London Assurance," more than any other part in which we had seen her before we witnessed the play of "Self" on Saturday evening. Bourcier's play of "London Assurance," which Mr. Thackeray abominably criticized for its inherent impossibility and the good English put into the mouths of the servants, resembles the play of the "Stranger," in being a great favorite and in retaining the stage, though no one can tell the reason why.

It is, however, very effective, and Lady Gay Speaker has become quite classical. We have seen Miss Bateman play this part in Boston, Philadelphia, and Baltimore. We have also seen the part taken by many actresses, from Mrs. Barron back to Mrs. Barrett, and we need not say how well taken. The latter, even in her old age, used to carry away her audience, though weighing about two hundred pounds, she used to trouble her "Dolly" considerably to carry her away, as he is obliged to do, and we should think her horse, Bluekin, must have been a remarkable animal to do his tricks in the way she described with on his back. We think Miss Bateman particularly adapted to that part. Lady Gay was a fine lady, the daughter of an earl, and loved Dolly, though he was under control. It is not in the earlier part of the play that Miss Bateman excels. The "turfy" part of the play she does not do as well as greater romps might do, but in the love scene with Sir Harcourt she is quite admirable. This enables her to take the part of Lady Teazle, for which, as well as for Julie, the beauty of face and figure adapt her. The play of "Self" is particularly interesting, because, written by Mrs. Bateman, the principal characters are taken by Miss Bateman and her mother.

Mr. D. G. McGAULUM, Military Director and Sup't Railroads, U. S. Army 4-11.

Fighting Alley.—The author of the novels and papers with the signature of "A. Ward," delivered his lecture, "The Children in the Wood," this evening, at Ward Hall. The press, wherever it is, shows a decided interest in his lectures, and his commandments. A contemporary, is noticing the treatment of "The Children in the Wood," says: "Lectures, as a general thing, do not come under the head of amusements, but a lecture, and especially one of this character, is a comic writer like Artemus Ward, may with entire propriety, be regarded as an amusement. The lecture was full of humor, and exactly in the style of the lecturer's writing, and well known to need characterization. It was a success—very gratifying."

CONTINENTAL HALL.—We are requested to announce that on Wednesday, this hall formerly called Philanthropic Hall, will be opened under its original name. An unqualified combination of talents will now open, dances, &c. See advertisements.

KODAK'S EXHIBITION.—TODAY.—The most excellent company of minstrels will appear to night at Old Fellow's Hall, in one of the most attractive programmes of the entire season. The minstrels, headed by "Mars Concert," will be introduced, among the entire company, a largely augmented orchestra.

CANTERBURY HALL.—Saturday night this popular place had an immense crowd. Standing room could not be had for love or money, and over three hundred persons were turned away. A large number of ladies, however, could be found after eight o'clock. Everybody appeared delighted with the splendid programme.

The new ballet, entitled "The Madrigals of Spain," was a splendid affair. Miss Miles Fowler showed the audience that she really deserved to be one of the stars of the show.

Miles Miles and Francis, the dancing darlings, were excellent; and in fact, all of the ladies in that ballet danced well. It will be repeated to-night, together with the remainder of the programme which the Canterbury Hall offers to night.—"The Wasp," "Violin," and the Ethiopian burlesque "Black Statue." Miss Julia Mortimer will be on hand with a new song. Go early, if you wish a seat.

Ford's Atheneum.—So great was the interest manifested in the brilliant rendering of the "Madame Butterfly" by the great Forrest, last Wednesday night, that the management have consented to repeat the tragedy to-night. In addition to the splendid production of "Forrest," the most beautiful Miss Atheneum, who appears in the character of Cio-Cio-San, will be introduced, among the entire company, a largely augmented orchestra.

THEATRE OF THE WORLDS.—The following prisoners were released from the Old Capitol prison on Saturday, by order of the Department, upon taking the oath of allegiance, which was administered by Justice Johnson:

Thomas W. Barry, of Washington, D. C.; Bevin S. Davis, Prince William county, Va.; George Seaman, do; do; John Clark, do.

Guitar Person Goods.

The Gutter Percher goods sold at Umberville, on Seventh street, will again now. They have money, as they cost no more and last longer than any other similar material; save leather, protection against rheumatism and rheumatism; save time, being instantly applied to the skin. The goods are sold at a discount of 25 per cent, and a year of guarantee, distinguishing the tendency of cavalrymen to "sear like scorpions;" and save life in a multitude of instances. Remember 419 Seventh street.

Stomach.

Timothy Murphy and Dennis Murphy were arrested by Officer Henne, last evening, on the charge of horse-stealing, and taken before Justice Walter, who bailed Timothy for his appearance at court, and dismissed Dennis. On Friday, El Whittle was arrested by Officer Henne, and charged with the robbery of a watch from A. Dunn, and taken before Justice Walter, who bailed him fully. Before Justice Walter, who bailed him fully. He was quite the hero of the play of "Self." Miss Bateman particularly adapted to that part. Lady Gay was a fine lady, the daughter of an earl, and loved Dolly, though he was under control. It is not in the earlier part of the play that Miss Bateman excels. The "turfy" part of the play she does not do as well as greater romps might do, but in the love scene with Sir Harcourt she is quite admirable. This enables her to take the part of Lady Teazle, for which, as well as for Julie, the beauty of face and figure adapt her. The play of "Self" is particularly interesting, because, written by Mrs. Bateman, the principal characters are taken by Miss Bateman and her mother.

Mr. D. G. McGAULUM, Military Director and Sup't Railroads, U. S. Army 4-11.

Lecture by Dr. Winsor.

Rev. Francis Vinton, D. D., Rector of Trinity Church, New York, a man whose reputation as a scholar and eloquent divine is deservedly high, delivered one of the free lectures of the season, on "The Philosophy of War, or the Art and Science of War." The lecture was delivered by the great Forrest, last Wednesday night, that the management have consented to repeat the tragedy to-night. In addition to the splendid production of "Forrest," the most beautiful Miss Atheneum, who appears in the character of Cio-Cio-San, will be introduced, among the entire company, a largely augmented orchestra.

These speakers on that platform, Dr. V. presented a calm and logical argument, to the entire gratification of the audience, which the leaders pretend to justify accession. These, he said, were mainly three: the right of revolution, State sovereignty, and the preservation of slavery. Appending to the first of these, that of the right of revolution, he said, that of our Revolutionary fathers, and demand a recognition by the Powers of Europe on similar grounds. But a sufficient reply to this, is the fact that our ancestors simply claimed, at the time of the Declaration of Independence, that the colonies had the right to revolution, in connection with taxation, and had no contention of revoking, until they were goaded to it by the disregard of their petitions for redress, and the harsh and oppressive measures of the government of revolution. The right of revolution, until then, had not been recognized until all legal and peaceful means have failed, and hence, is impossible under our form of government, which, by the frequent reversal of power to the people, and the provision in the Constitution for its own amendment, afforded a remedy for every difficulty entirely unknown in any other nation. Up to the 12th of April, 1861, when the war was initiated by the attack on Sumter, no citizen of the seconded States could assert that the seconded States' property had been attacked, and hence their claim was untenable.

With regard to the doctrine of State sovereignty, he quoted from the speeches and writings of John C. Calhoun, to show that, though he held that a State might, legally, act, of course, in self-defense, he did not, however, utterly repudiate the idea that any State could abrogate the Constitution itself. The fact that its repudiation by the several States was equivalent to the bringing up of a rebellion against the laws of God, was well known from it, when they had expressly agreed that it should be the supreme law of the land, "anything in the Constitution or laws of any State to the contrary notwithstanding." He showed how the principles of Calhoun had pointed out the inevitable growth of the doctrine of State rights into the pernicious one of State sovereignty, ending in secession and treason.

As for the plan which is so abominably devised, he quoted from the speeches and writings of John C. Calhoun, to show that, though he held that a State might, legally, act, of course, in self-defense, he did not, however, utterly repudiate the idea that any State could abrogate the Constitution itself. The fact that its repudiation by the several States was equivalent to the bringing up of a rebellion against the laws of God, was well known from it, when they had expressly agreed that it should be the supreme law of the land, "anything in the Constitution or laws of any State to the contrary notwithstanding."

He showed how the principles of Calhoun had pointed out the inevitable growth of the doctrine of State rights into the pernicious one of State sovereignty, ending in secession and treason.

Drunk and Disorderly.

Patriot Hansen, an Irish soldier, was arrested by Officer Hanan, yesterday, for being drunk and kicking up a noise. He was turned over to the military authorities.

The Jewish Passover.

This Jewish festival week commences this evening, when there will be a general suspension of business among all persons of the Hebrew faith. The unleavened bread is eaten on Saturday, called leibh, by the bright sun, after the unusually dry storm of Wednesday.

Washington Navy Yard.

The pay-roll for March is to compensate the workmen for the month of April. The pay-roll paid off on Friday, and no longer for an opportunity to build such a vessel as will prove the rabbis the superiority of this great naval station.

Chancery in the Second District Magazine.

Captain James Callan, having obtained his position in the surgeon general's office, has resigned his commission in the Second District volunteers. In consequence of this, the adjutant general has given the command of the volunteers to Major General Lee, which the rebels pretend to justify accession.

These speakers on that platform, Dr. V. presented a calm and logical argument, to the entire gratification of the audience, which the leaders pretend to justify accession. These, he said, were mainly three: the right of revolution, State sovereignty, and the preservation of slavery. Appending to the first of these, that of the right of revolution, he said, that of our Revolutionary fathers, and demand a recognition by the Powers of Europe on similar grounds. But a sufficient reply to this, is the fact that our ancestors simply claimed, at the time of the Declaration of Independence, that the colonies had the right to revolution, in connection with taxation, and had no contention of revoking, until they were goaded to it by the disregard of their petitions for redress, and the harsh and oppressive measures of the government of revolution. The right of revolution, until then, had not been recognized until all legal and peaceful means have failed, and hence, is impossible under our form of government, which, by the frequent reversal of power to the people, and the provision in the Constitution for its own amendment, afforded a remedy for every difficulty entirely unknown in any other nation.

Up to the 12th of April, 1861, when the war was initiated by the attack on Sumter, no citizen of the seconded States could assert that the seconded States' property had been attacked, and hence their claim was untenable.

With regard to the doctrine of State sovereignty, he quoted from the speeches and writings of John C. Calhoun, to show that, though he held that a State might, legally, act, of course, in self-defense, he did not, however, utterly repudiate the idea that any State could abrogate the Constitution itself. The fact that its repudiation by the several States was equivalent to the bringing up of a rebellion against the laws of God, was well known from it, when they had expressly agreed that it should be the supreme law of the land, "anything in the Constitution or laws of any State to the contrary notwithstanding."

He showed how the principles of Calhoun had pointed out the inevitable growth of the doctrine of State rights into the pernicious one of State sovereignty, ending in secession and treason.

As for the plan which is so abominably devised, he quoted from the speeches and writings of John C. Calhoun, to show that, though he held that a State might, legally, act, of course, in self-defense, he did not, however, utterly repudiate the idea that any State could abrogate the Constitution itself. The fact that its repudiation by the several States was equivalent to the bringing up of a rebellion against the laws of God, was well known from it, when they had expressly agreed that it should be the supreme law of the land, "anything in the Constitution or laws of any State to the contrary notwithstanding."

He showed how the principles of Calhoun had pointed out the inevitable growth of the doctrine of State rights into the pernicious one of State sovereignty, ending in secession and treason.

Drunk and Disorderly.

Patriot Hansen, an Irish soldier, was arrested by Officer Hanan, yesterday, for being drunk and kicking up a noise. He was turned over to the military authorities.

The Jewish Passover.

This Jewish festival week commences this evening, when there will be a general suspension of business among all persons of the Hebrew faith. The unleavened bread is eaten on Saturday, called leibh, by the bright sun, after the unusually dry storm of Wednesday.

Washington Traveller.—This evening Miss Anne's life will make her first appearance, in King's Hall, in the great tragic play of "Medea." We have not seen Miss Anne for years, but she is said to be beautiful person, and one of the best noticed upon the stage at the present time. She has a very fine figure, and is well informed which led to her subsequent arrest, by Officers Vernon and Gosford. In examining several witnesses testified to seeing Mangum stab Russell. It was also proved that Mangum was dimmed, he was the real culprit, according to the following statement of Mangum: "I Mangum inflicted the stab he ran down the alley and there's the knife into the house of his master in the same blood, who took the knife, I don't know, but I think it was Mangum." Mangum, alias "Butch," is the most charming actress in the country. Her line of character, as our readers well know, is the higher class of "farcos." Mangum always plays the "School for Scandal." She also plays the high tragedie as the "Madonna of Am." and the part of "Juliet," in "Romeo and Juliet." Her "Juliet" is the "Hammerhead" in very fine; but we have been accustomed to admire her judgment of "Lady Gay Speaker," in "London Assurance," more than any other part in which we had seen her before we witnessed the play of "Self" on Saturday evening. Bourcier's play of "London Assurance," which Mr. Thackeray abominably criticized for its inherent impossibility and the good English put into the mouths of the servants, resembles the play of the "Stranger," in being a great favorite and in retaining the stage, though no one can tell the reason why.

It is, however, very effective, and Lady Gay Speaker has become quite classical. We have seen Miss Bateman play this part in Boston, Philadelphia, and Baltimore. We have also seen the part taken by many actresses, from Mrs. Barron back to Mrs. Barrett, and we need not say how well taken. The latter, even in her old age, used to carry away her audience, though weighing about two hundred pounds, she used to trouble her "Dolly" considerably to carry her away, as he is obliged to do, and we should think her horse, Bluekin, must have been a remarkable animal to do his tricks in the way she described with on his back. We think Miss Bateman particularly adapted to that part. Lady Gay was a fine lady, the daughter of an earl, and loved Dolly, though he was under control. It is not in the earlier part of the play that Miss Bateman excels. The "turfy" part of the play she does not do as well as greater romps might do, but in the love scene with Sir Harcourt she is quite admirable. This enables her to take the part of Lady Teazle, for which, as well as for Julie, the beauty of face and figure adapt her. The play of "Self" is particularly interesting, because, written by Mrs. Bateman, the principal characters are taken by Miss Bateman and her mother.

Mr. D. G. McGAULUM, Military Director and Sup't Railroads, U. S. Army 4-11.

Fighting Alley.—The author of the novels and papers with the signature of "A. Ward," delivered his lecture, "The Children in the Wood," this evening, at Ward Hall. The press, wherever it is, shows a decided interest in his lectures, and his commandments. A contemporary, is noticing the treatment of "The Children in the Wood," says: "Lectures, as a general thing, do not come under the head of amusements, but a lecture, and especially one of this character, is a comic writer like Artemus Ward, may with entire propriety, be regarded as an amusement. The lecture was full of humor, and exactly in the style of the lecturer's writing, and well known to need characterization. It was a success—very gratifying."

CONTINENTAL HALL.—We are requested to announce that on Wednesday, this hall formerly called Philanthropic Hall, will be opened under its original name. An unqualified combination of talents will now open, dances, &c. See advertisements.

KODAK'S EXHIBITION.—TODAY.—The most excellent company of minstrels will appear to night at Old Fellow's Hall, in one of the most attractive programmes of the entire season. The minstrels, headed by "Mars Concert," will be introduced, among the entire company, a largely augmented orchestra.

CANTERBURY HALL.—Saturday night this popular place had an immense crowd. Standing room could not be had for love or money, and over three hundred persons were turned away. A large number of ladies, however, could be found after eight o'clock. Everybody appeared delighted with the splendid programme.

The new ballet, entitled "The Madrigals of Spain," was a splendid affair. Miss Miles Fowler showed the audience that she really deserved to be one of the stars of the show.

Miles Miles and Francis, the dancing darlings, were excellent; and in fact, all of the ladies in that ballet danced well. It will be repeated to-night, together with the remainder of the programme which the Canterbury Hall offers to night.—"The Wasp," "Violin," and the Ethiopian burlesque "Black Statue." Miss Julia Mortimer will be on hand with a new song. Go early, if you wish a seat.

Ford's Atheneum.—So great was the interest manifested in the brilliant rendering of the "Madame Butterfly" by the great Forrest, last Wednesday night, that the management have consented to repeat the tragedy to-night. In addition to the splendid production of "Forrest," the most beautiful Miss Atheneum, who appears in the character of Cio-Cio-San, will be introduced, among the entire company, a largely augmented orchestra.

THEATRE OF THE WORLDS.—The following prisoners were released from the Old Capitol prison on Saturday, by order of the Department, upon taking the oath of allegiance, which was administered by Justice Johnson:

Thomas W. Barry, of Washington, D. C.; Bevin S. Davis, Prince William county, Va.; George Seaman, do; do; John Clark, do.

Guitar Person Goods.

The Gutter Percher goods sold at Umberville, on Seventh street, will again now. They have money, as they cost no more and last longer than any other similar material; save leather, protection against rheumatism and rheumatism; save time, being instantly applied to the skin. The goods are sold at a discount of 25 per cent, and a year of guarantee, distinguishing the tendency of cavalrymen to "sear like scorpions;" and save life in a multitude of instances. Remember 419 Seventh street.

Stomach.

Timothy Murphy and Dennis Murphy were arrested by Officer Henne, last evening, on the charge of horse-stealing, and taken before Justice Walter, who bailed Timothy for his appearance at court, and dismissed Dennis. On Friday, El Whittle was arrested by Officer Henne, and charged with the robbery of a watch from A. Dunn, and taken before Justice Walter, who bailed him fully. Before Justice Walter, who bailed him fully. He was quite the hero of the play of "Self." Miss Bateman particularly adapted to that part. Lady Gay was a fine lady, the daughter of an earl, and loved Dolly, though he was under control. It is not in the earlier part of the play that Miss Bateman excels. The "turfy" part of the play she does not do as well as greater romps might do, but in the love scene with Sir Harcourt she is quite admirable. This enables her to take the part of Lady Teazle, for which, as well as for Julie, the beauty of face and figure adapt her. The play of "Self" is particularly interesting, because, written by Mrs. Bateman, the principal characters are taken by Miss Bateman and her mother.

Mr. D. G. McGAULUM, Military Director and Sup't Railroads, U. S. Army 4-11.

Fighting Alley.—The author of the novels and papers with the signature of "A. Ward," delivered his lecture, "The Children in the Wood," this evening, at Ward Hall. The press, wherever it is, shows a decided interest in his lectures, and his commandments. A contemporary, is noticing the treatment of "The Children in the Wood," says: "Lectures, as a general thing, do not come under the head of amusements, but a lecture, and especially one of this character, is a comic writer like Artemus Ward, may with entire propriety, be regarded as an amusement. The lecture was full of humor, and exactly in the style of the lecturer's writing, and well known to need characterization. It was a success—very gratifying."

CONTINENTAL HALL.—We are requested to announce that on Wednesday, this hall formerly called Philanthropic Hall, will be opened under its original name. An unqualified combination of talents will now open, dances, &c. See advertisements.

KODAK'S EXHIBITION.—TODAY.—The most excellent company of minstrels will appear to night at Old Fellow's Hall, in one of the most attractive programmes of the entire season. The minstrels, headed by "Mars Concert," will be introduced, among the entire company, a largely augmented orchestra.

CANTERBURY HALL.—Saturday night this popular place had an immense crowd. Standing room could not be had for love or money, and over three hundred persons were turned away. A large number of ladies, however, could be found after eight o'clock.